

Police

PDMS have an established track record of successful projects for the police and wider criminal justice sector.

We work with clients such as the West Midlands Police, West Yorkshire Police and the Isle of Man Probation Service. We are a technology partner to the Police National Legal Database and our Foundations TM technology platform drives their three major national UK police products.

Foundations TM components have been built to ensure that the system can comply with the emerging data standards and interoperability initiatives sponsored by co-ordinating bodies within the criminal justice sector, such as PITO and CJIT, and the wider eGif framework. Systems built with Foundations TM will also integrate with other third party systems.

Find out more about Foundations TM .

Recent projects in the police sector include:

- New National Police Statistics System
- “Ask the Police” Website & Database (Read case study)
- Police National Legal Database (Read case study)
- Crime, Lost & Found Property System (Read case study)

Download our public sector brochure to find out more information.