

PDMS announces Sun Developer Connection Membership

PDMS is pleased to announce that it has recently become a Sun Developer Connection member. Sun's Solaris platform provides an excellent basis for enterprise-scale systems and PDMS' new status as members acknowledges their commitment to supporting this platform.

The Sun Developer Connection membership compliments PDMS' existing membership of the Oracle Partner Programme and their status as a Microsoft Certified Partner.

Over the past few years the PDMS development team have increased their knowledge and expertise in the use of Sun, Oracle and Microsoft development environments which is actively demonstrated by membership of the respective Partner Programmes. The Programmes provide PDMS with the leading edge technology, education and technical support necessary to effectively integrate these leading edge technologies into PDMS' bespoke solutions.

Mike Bromwich, Technical Director at PDMS, commented "We are proud to partner with Sun and this Programme allows us to build a relationship with them whereby we gain access not only to the technologies and tools but just as importantly, the expertise and support". He continued, " This new membership together with our existing status as an Oracle Partner Programme member and a Microsoft Certified Partner clearly demonstrates our commitment to providing our clients with world class enterprise and web-based solutions".
