

PDMS Employed for your community

PDMS Employed is an online employability and skills platform that enables collaboration and partnership between individuals and organisations to create valuable employability opportunities. It was engineered with the help of education, employers and local government, each of whom were frustrated by the complex employability and skills environment. PDMS Employed makes sense of this environment by acting as a central platform where multiple different services can be delivered from. This results in largescale cost savings, greater efficiency and a user centric service.

Delivering a collaborative skills system

One local hub where everyone involved – employers, individuals, FE Colleges, schools, LEPs and Local Authorities - can register once and use the same secure platform to consume or deliver a wide range of services.

- ✔ Manage all work experience, placement and apprenticeship programmes including Health & Safety processes
- ✔ Build programmes for specific groups of individuals sufficiently flexible to support any future initiatives
- ✔ Create and manage events such as mentoring or volunteering initiatives
- ✔ Administer and promote local jobs and apprenticeship opportunities
- ✔ Create forms and workflow to provide services built around existing processes
- ✔ Provide one central signpost for all careers related advice, information and resources

Benefits of using PDMS Employed

Promote pathways for employment – enhancing equality and diversity in the workforce
